

PAGE BY PAGE

New on the Shelf

Deadly to the Core by Joyce Tremel

When Kate Mulligan inherits her great uncle's fruit orchard, she quickly realizes that apples aren't the only thing that can have rotten cores. Her plans to open a cider house fall far from the tree when she discovers her orchard manager dead, leaving her to figure out who is at the core of this murder. Will she be able to pick out the bad apple among the bunch before it's too late? A great fall read!

Staff Read

Can't Spell Treason Without Tea by Rebecca Thorne

A Queen's private guard & a mage who want to open a bookstore. This book was right up my alley!

- Stephanie

Highly Recommended Author

Freida McFadden

Bestselling author Freida McFadden is a practicing physician specializing in brain injury who has penned multiple Kindle bestselling psychological thrillers and medical humor novels. She lives with her family and black cat in a centuries-old three-story home overlooking the ocean, with staircases that creak and moan with each step, and nobody could hear you if you scream. Unless you scream really loudly, maybe.

Genre Spotlight

Cozy Mysteries

Generally thought as easy gentle reading, Cozy Mysteries have taken off in popularity the last few years. Generally cozies take place in a small town or village, with everyday people as the characters. People you could see as your neighbors. These mysteries generally do not contain gory details or adult material. The sleuth is always an amateur, generally finds the body and for one reason or another gets involved in the investigation.

The nice thing about cozies is their small setting, which means the stories or series (as many are series) can be specialized: a farm, a tea shop, book store, etc. This fall look for cozies set on farms, in small farming communities, with paranormal themes or halloween. They're a quick, gentle read as school begins and the weather cools.

Cozy Reads

